

CHELSEA FLOWER SHOW

PROPERTY GURU AND CITY DWELLER MAGAZINE COLUMNIST CHRISTINE YORATH VISITS THE WORLD'S MOST PRESTIGIOUS FLOWER SHOW

If you have never been to the Chelsea Flower Show you should consider adding it to your bucket list.

I have been every year for quite some time and it never fails to please, and this year was no exception with the multi gold medal winning 'Welcome to Yorkshire' garden.

There is something at the show for everyone. Even if you live in a small apartment with no balcony, you might be one of the people who joins the current trend of growing the Primula Auricula...

I had never even heard of it until my friend I went to the show with, told me about various businessmen we know who are collecting them, and when we sought it out in the central great exhibition hall found a queue of people waiting to talk to the expert who doesn't even do online sales or have a nursery and just sells at shows.

For anyone with a balcony or a garden, the inspiration is fabulous and this year if you didn't come away wanting to grow lupins you must have walked round in a blindfold - it seemed as if every attractive garden had them.

The show only lasts a few days so it's gone now but it's worth popping May 21st to 25th in your diary if you want to see 'Welcome to Yorkshire's' 2019 entry!

Enjoy your home and garden!
